Beauty is more than skin deep...

COIL COATED METALLIC EFFECTS THAT ENHANCE ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN

The journey from initial inspiration to practical realisation can take years. We would like this collection to catalyze a process in which inspiration is transformed into practical, economic and sustainable solutions. Recognized for exceptional service and quality, the Beckers Group offers coatings that unite beauty and function – with a performance to match their looks.

Metal is one of the more popular materials used by designers, for both interior and exterior constructions. Metal offers such a broad variety of combinations: iron, steel, stainless steel, aluminum. Metal can be either an attractive material in its own right or an enhancement in combination with other materials, contributing strength, flexibility and sustainability. Coloured and special-effect coatings add a further dimension in terms of protection, functionality and visual appeal.

Over time, metal has acquired an increasingly exclusive role in architectural and product design. It can be raw and textured, burnished and sleek, or feature a mix of several visual effects. Coil coated metal is protected from the elements, ensuring that impressive buildings remain impressive. Design trends vary from a natural look and feel to surfaces with a special patina or a more sophisticated urban style. There are Beckers coatings to cater for every trend. While protecting the substrate, our products can reproduce whatever metallic surface you choose. You can create the timeless look of naturally-aged copper without incurring the environmental challenge of verdigris, that poisonous green pigmentation arising from the action of acetic acid on copper. Or how about a subtly rusted effect without any corrosion? And why not a house of shimmering gold? Our paints ensure a consistent look that naturally aging metals can never achieve. Beckers metal-effect coil coatings combine consistent quality with excellent formability, effective corrosion protection and proven weather resistance, maintaining a stylish finish far into the future.

The colour matchings presented are divided into 5 themes and are available in the Beckry®Fluor/Beckry®Flon and Beckry®Tech systems. The products can be tailor-made according to customer specifications, i.e. gloss, layers and quality. Our paint systems can be coated on steel as well as aluminium. The five themes works just as well for interior as exterior design – creating a flair of sophistication. Be inspired!
